

Bennett Steiner

Bennett is a sophomore from Phoenix, Arizona pursuing a degree in economics and computer information systems from Arizona State University. He currently serves as the chief financial officer of the Arizona State University chapter of Let America vote, and coaches speech and debate at Phoenix Country Day School. His academic interests include international economics, justice studies, data analytics, and public service. As an Eagle Scout, he believes that the needs of the less fortunate should be prioritized. In his spare time, Bennett enjoys cooking, hiking, and playing tabletop games.

Kyle Slaughter

Kyle Slaughter is junior from Houston, Texas who is majoring in public service and public policy with a focus in emergency management and homeland security. His career interests include law enforcement, criminal justice, public policy, and foreign affairs. After graduating from Arizona State, Kyle wants to attend The Bush School of Government and Public Service and get his masters in national security and diplomacy. In his free time, Kyle enjoys watching and playing sports as well as hanging out with friends and family.

John Lake

John is currently a junior pursuing a degree in political science. He is interested public policy development, human rights protection, and democracy expansion. He has interned for multiple campaigns in Arizona as well as the Arizona AFL-CIO. Ultimately, his main goal is to better the lives of people through good policy and good government both in the United States and abroad, and after graduation he will be focusing his career on furthering that end.

Maya Perez

Maya Perez is currently studying political science and global studies with a minor in media analysis and two certificates in international studies and political entrepreneurship through leadership. She worked for advocacy groups like, Arizona Advocacy Network, as well as foreign relations organizations such as the Phoenix Committee on Foreign Relations, and hopes to continue advocating and fighting for citizen rights locally, nationally, and globally in the future. She decided to study these specifically, because she is interested in becoming an ambassador or foreign policy advisor. She is very passionate about international affairs and sees herself going to law school or pursuing a master's in the study.

Kim Alexis Adversario

Kim Alexis is a political science major with minors in business and Spanish. She is interested in protecting human rights both domestically and internationally. After having been to ten different countries, she has become passionate for learning about the diverse communities around the world. At Arizona State University, she has been heavily involved in Barrett, the Honors College through recruitment, student engagement, and assistant teaching. She was recently elected as a Barrett Senator for Undergraduate Student Government but had to resign due to this amazing opportunity in the McCain Institute Internship Program. She is also a member of Kappa Alpha Theta and enjoys participating in philanthropies and service opportunities. Kim Alexis hopes to one day become a Supreme Court Justice.

Ryan Madsen

Ryan Madsen is a senior at Arizona State University working towards a Bachelor of Science in Political Science and minors in American History and global studies. He is also working towards several academic certificates in international studies and political history, as well as leadership and political entrepreneurship. Ryan has been involved in several clubs and academic organizations ranging from focuses on political theory, history or just singing with friends. His academic interests include international relations, ethics, human rights, and national security. Outside of school and work Ryan enjoys traveling, watching all sorts of movies, attending concerts, reading or just spending time with friends and family. In the future Ryan plans on pursuing a master's or a law degree in order to increase his understanding of the law and the process of policy creation and implementation.